

WHAT IS A FAMILY COUNCIL?

Under federal law, family members in a long-term care facility can join together to form a united consumer voice which can communicate concerns to facility administrators and work for resolutions and improvements by forming an independent family council.

Family councils can play a crucial role in voicing concerns, requesting improvements, supporting new family members and residents and supporting facility efforts to working for high quality of care and life in the facility.

Join and support the family council at your loved one's facility! If no family council exists, join with other family members to form one. Learn more by visiting the Family Council Center at www.theconsumervoice.org/familymember/family-council-center

National Consumer Voice for Quality Long-Term Care was founded out of public concern for the quality of care in nursing homes by Elma L. Holder as the National Citizens' Coalition for Nursing Home Reform (NCCNHR). The Consumer Voice advocates for public policies that support quality care and quality of life in all long-term care settings. The Consumer Voice also advocates for a strong, sufficient direct-care workforce and promotes best practices in delivering quality in care. The Consumer Voice represents consumers and advocates who define and achieve quality for people with long-term care needs. We accomplish these efforts through:

- Advocating for public policies that support quality care and life;
- Empowering and educating consumers and families;
- Training and supporting individuals and groups to advocate for and empower consumers; and
- Promoting the critical role of direct-care workers and best practices in quality-care delivery.

RIGHTS & BEST PRACTICES

FAMILY COUNCIL RIGHTS Under the 1987 Nursing Home Reform Act

- A resident's family has the right to meet in the facility with the families of other residents in the facility.
- The facility must provide a family group, if one exists, with private space.
- Staff or visitors may attend meetings at the group's invitation.
- The facility must provide a designated staff person responsible for providing assistance and responding to written requests that result from group meetings.
- When a family group exists, the facility must listen to the views and act upon the grievances and recommendations of residents and families concerning proposed policy and operational decisions affecting resident care and life in the facility.

TIPS & BEST PRACTICES

- Collect contact information using a sign-in sheet at meetings.
 - Plan for the long-term stability of the council by putting structure in place, such as by-laws, and developing leadership.
- Brainstorm for ideas about how concerns can be addressed.
 - Communicate regularly with facility staff and management about council concerns and suggestions, actions to be taken, etc.
 - Establish contact with the long-term care ombudsman. Locate the ombudsman in your area at www.theconsumervoice.org.
- Focus on common council goals (and identify and continuously assess progress).
- Follow procedures for conducting effective meetings, such as using agendas, keeping minutes, starting and ending meetings on time, sticking to the topic scheduled for discussion and "assigning" tasks for future activities to be accomplished before the next meeting.
- Remember that family councils may not produce immediate results but can be very effective if the council perseveres.

Family Councils for Quality Long-Term Care: Support, Strengthen and Empower

Through this initiative, the Consumer Voice provides resources and opportunities to Michigan, Ohio and Virginia family councils, and councils across the country.

In Virginia and Michigan:

The Consumer Voice makes pass-through grants available in the amount of $250 to $1,000 each to independent family councils for the purpose of funding council activities.

Supported by the Frances Lane Memorial Family Council Fund of the Edward H. Lane Foundation

In Ohio:

The Consumer Voice is making pass-through grants in the amount of $250 to $500 each available directly to independent family councils for the purpose of funding council activities.

Supported by Families for Improved Care (FFIC), a former Ohio-based consumer advocacy group for residents and their families in long-term care facilities
